SHORT DOCUMENTATION OF THE ANALYSIS

For "PXD Biopyramid" evaluation towards harmonization of the electromagnetic emission biological influence with harmful influence biological fields to the human's organism.

IGEF Laboratory for Research, by using biological research, has analyzed "PXD Biopyramid" produced by PXD System, Macedonia, in relation to its protective influence from electromagnetic emission biological influences, as well as harmful influence geo-biological fields to the human's organism.

This short documentation provides clear review of the research analyses. The detailed analysis from 22.03.2007, confirms that:

is convenient for usage in homes and offices in order to protect you from electromagnetic smog biological influence and harmful influence geo-biological fields (such as underground water flows, land movement, Hartman and Kari network). The requirements of the electromagnetic smog international association for acquiring IGEF seal with the content >analyzed and recommended by IGEF<, are fulfilled in entirety.

The analyses for "PXD Biopyramid" protective influence, are carried out according to the science methodology for anonymous research. The evidence of the protective influence was realized by the most modern instruments for biological feedback, which have been used in the science researches for stress and relaxation. 22 analyzed people of 9 households in total, were included in the research, divided by random case in one main and one control group. Herein, are summarized the most significant analysis results.

Significant results from the biological feedback study in the anonymous research

1. Reduction of the stress potential by using the "PXD Biopyramid"

The stress potential of all examinees from the main group was reduced for 35 % and it was noticed more harmonic flow of the curves.

2. Increasing of the necessary blood volume /quantitv

The blood quantity flow, in the main group examinees, was increased for 20% after the "PXD Biopyramid" activation. The necessary blood quantity increase has a positive influence on cells supply, with better nutritious substances as well as substances that improve the transfer.

3. Improvement of the heartbeats variability

The study has shown that the "PXD Biopyramid" has a positive influence on the internal organism balance. According to the reduction of the outside burden, the number of the Heartbeats' Pairs can be reduced for >50ms, and it can also reduces the number of Nervous System Total Power. During the analysis, the heart beats of the main group examinees have closed to "the normal values" of a healthy person. The "PXD Biopyramid" usage can be recommended for outside burden reduction of the electromagnetic smog and geo-biological fields with harmful influence.
